U.S. Senate Passes Over $3,900m. Aid

WASHINGTON (AP). — The U.S. Senate Wednesday voted $3,880,000 to help friendly nations and strengthen anti-Communist defenses around the world.

The vote for the appropriation was 87-28. President Eisenhower won a major victory as the Senate rejected every cut made by the House in the Foreign Aid Bill except those in military arms aid.

The Senate also added $100m. in presidential contingency funds to meet unforeseeable crises in the Congo and elsewhere.

Writing into the bill was an amendment letting the President shut off foreign aid to any country he sees fit to support. Eisenhower's original re-gime with either economic or military assistance. This was adopted by voice vote.

The Senate further adopted, also by voice vote, an amendment giving the President authority to deny aid to any country which supplies arms to Latin America. Being subjected to economic and diplomatic sanctions by the Organization of American States. The OAS this week voted to apply such sanctions to the Dominican Republic.

This proposal, repeatedly suggested by Prime Minister Ben-Gurion, would provide for a neutral panel, headed by a judge, that will hear — and decide — whether a group of employees — say the teachers — are entitled to the wage increase they claim. It will differ from ordinary investigation committees because it will be invested with the authority to make a final decision, binding on both the employees and the employers.

This machinery, according to the Prime Minister, would end the threat of strikes in trades or professions where a total stoppage endangers national stability. Education, of course, is one of the branches in which strikes are as out of place as they are in the army or the police, and for the same reason: it is not the employer that suffers in a strike, but the general public. It is hoped that there would be no resentment against the decision of such a neutral body, for there will be the aura of a court's infallibility about the verdict.

It is also argued by the supporters of the device that similar wage tribunals exist in some more advanced countries, and that it cannot be claimed that the measure is anti-labour.

The main advantage of the system is that it could bring calm and stability to labour relations — a stability which is urgently necessary to take Israel further on the road of development.

Others argue, however, that this panacea smells so strongly of the pre-war syndicalism of Italy that its very discussion leaves a disagreeable taste in the mouth of protagonists of free labour unions. It means that, ultimately, a State instrument is the final judge in fixing wages. This is a far cry from the joint employee-employee committee which the Histadrut proposed at its last convention.

SOVIET MANNED ROCKET 'SOON'

BERLIN (UPI). — Professor Leonid I. Sedov, head of the Soviet Space Agency, said yesterday that the Soviet Union will launch a manned rocket "soon."

But he told the West Berlin newspaper "B.Z." that there will be further tests with unmanned capsules before manned satellites are launched.

The manned satellite will be called "Obitaymny Sputnik," he said. "That means 'habitable satellite' and it will return to earth."

Prof. Sedov said sending a manned space ship around the moon "lies far in the future... perhaps 20 years."

American rocket expert Werner von Braun in an interview with the newspaper on Tuesday, said the U.S. hopes to send a manned rocket around the moon in 1965.

The President repeated his opinion that the 10-year suspension on U-2 Pilot Powers was too harsh.

He was asked why he felt that way in view of the fact that the U.S. courts had sentenced Col. Rudolf Abel, a convicted Soviet spy, to 10 years in prison and had handed out severe sentences to other Russian spies.

He observed that he personally had no yardstick to apply with respect to the question of Soviet spies, for the simple reason that the type of U-2 incident had never come up before.

Hopes About Cuba

He asserted that the relations between Cuba and the United States have by no means reached the irretrievable stage. He said he would do what is necessary to participate in any kind of conference of heads of government that could achieve something useful, although he said he would not want to speculate that this type of a meeting is now in the works.

Mr. Eisenhower said the welfare of the Cuban people will demand settlement of Cuba's quarrel with the U.S. and her other American neighbours. (UPI, Reuter)

Chodorov in Hospital After Vienna Defeat

VIENNA (UPI). — The Israeli international goals, Chodorov, a 40-year-old, undetermined internal injuries suffered in the 44th minute of the friendly soccer match between Haifa Maccabi and Austrian Vienna, in which the Israeli side was walloped 8-2.

In his 40 years of life, the Histadrut has made the identity of interests as between the Labour community and the Jewish State itself the invariable cornerstone of its policy. Undoubtedly, its members today are in a position of the most solid and national principles. Its leaders have been busy fortifying their organization's stand in certain positions which the Government might seek to take over, and have perhaps given less than enough attention to the incubation of newwances with basic Histadrut principles.

One of these basic principles of the Histadrut has been the unity of rank, the indissolvability of Labor. It was this principle which permitted the Histadrut to maintain a balanced wage policy in spite of much opposition. If this sense of unity is lost, then the Histadrut grip on the situation may be lost, and Israel might shift in all sorts of unexpected directions.

Blessings From Pope, and K. For Olympic Games

ROME. — Pope John yesterday told nearly 4,000 Olympic athletes from 70 nations: "May the best man win."

The 78-year-old Pontiff organized the athletes and organizers of the 17th Olympic Games, which begin today, in St. Peter's Square.

Athletes from Soviet Russia, Poland, France, Spain, Portugal, Catholic, Protestant and Jews and representatives of the races of the world were in that vast audience.

The Pope spoke in Latin and summary translations were English, Spanish, Portuguese, German, Dutch, Russian, Polish, Hungarian, Chinese, Japanese and Arabic.

"It is not the prize offered in the race," he said, "but the correct exercising of the body that merits the higher esteem."

"Home life, indeed, and a proper training and education of the young bid us be on our guard, in athletic contests, against giving exclusive attention to the American system."

He blessed Cuba for bringing Communism into Latin America, and said that Cuba's leaders are directing their nation "in the Communist direction."

Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa walked out of the meeting when Mr. Eisenhower criticized Cuba. He told reporters he would return to speak today. The delegation as a whole abstained.

Mr. Roa named the Soviet Union and China as the Communist powers moving in on the hemisphere and told his fellow Ministers:

"We should call for effective resistance to these efforts between the two branches of Congress. Then it must be passed by the House and signed by the President to be law."

The total in the bill, as passed by the Senate, is nearly $400m.

One item on which the Senate and House are already agreed is $1,800m. for military assistance. This is $200m. less than Mr. Eisenhower had hoped for, but even so it is $600m. more than Congress passed last year.

The Senate acted with almost unprecedented speed in a foreign aid bill which usually produces a bitter battle.

Communist threats in Cuba, Africa and South America, following on the heels of the collapse of the Summit conference, recent anti-American rioting in Japan and recurring pressures on West Berlin, provided a backdrop for the action.

U.S. Senate Rejects Second Health Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI). — The Senate on Tuesday night rejected appeals at the Organization of American States meeting in Costa Rica to offer medical care to the aged under social security. A coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats killed the measure — which was supported by the Democratic presidential candidate, Senator Kennedy — by 51 votes to 44.

As reported yesterday, the decision was made in a speech by a congress of workers' organizations, in effect rejecting appeals at the Organization of American States meeting in Costa Rica for him to renounce Communism and close the Western Hemisphere's ranks against Soviet-Chinese penetration.

Dr. Castro reported that "the world is turning against the U.S.A." and added that history and progress of humanity are on the side of a struggle against the U.S.

He also charged that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency was trying to organize followers of ex-dictator Fulgencio Batista for his return to power in Cuba.

The games open at noon today with a festive parade of all the participants. The first events are in the evening. (AP, Reuter)

Unions, Bus Co-ops Near Showdown

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. — The Histadrut Central Committee last night warned the bus cooperatives against accepting new members without prior approval by the Histadrut. The cooperatives were warned that the Histadrut would use all the force at its disposal to enforce its programme for abolishing hired labour in the bus companies.

The cooperatives were asked specifically to postpone the acceptance of new members for a week in order to allow the special Histadrut committee for implementing the programme to clarify differences of opinions. This request was rejected by representatives of the bus management attending the Central Committee meeting.

The employees of the cooperatives undertook to cancel their general strike called for today on the basis of Histadrut's promise to settle matters within the shortest possible time. Prior to the Central Committee meeting, the cooperatives' heads called a press conference to emphasize that they would not permit a Histadrut committee to dictate to them on membership policy. They said they did not fear strikes.

Court Told U.S. Nazis Want to Wipe Out Jews

NEW YORK (INA). — George Lincoln Rockwell's Washington-based American Nazi Party was roundly denounced in the New York State Supreme Court here on Wednesday as an organization that advocates the extermination of Jews.

Four defense attorneys, representing a wide variety of Jewish and non-Jewish organizations, petitioned the court to uphold the refusal of New York City to permit Rockwell to hold public rallies in this city.

The hearing before Justice Harry C. Greenberg, who insisted that the city permit Rockwell to hold rallies in Union Square, the CLU dissociated itself from Rockwell's views, holding him to be a threat to the security of the state.

Justice Greenberg reserved his decision on all the petitions until Friday afternoon to file briefs.

Elitzur Counsellors Threaten to Quit

TEL AVIV. — The Mapai branch here decided on Tuesday night to rescind resolutions on the Municipal Council's part that the Workers' Council will remain in a month's time if the Government fails to implement suggestions for fighting the threatened wave of emigration to the north.

It also demands the reduction of food prices, and those of other goods, to the levels prevailing in the north.

The Municipal Council held a meeting late yesterday which it is believed that 10 of the councillors favour the resolution of the entire Council in the face of alleged Government indifference to Elitzur's problems.

18 Immigrants Die On Ceylon Shore

COLOMBO (Reuter).—Eighteen bodies were discovered on Tuesday night and yesterday morning by troops on patrol duty on the deserted northern coast of Ceylon, British Minnara. The soldiers seized three men alleged to be illegal immigrants who had swum to safety. At the inquest into the deaths, the three said their party consisted of 36 who came from Malapadu south India. They said they were put off about 10 miles and told to wade ashore. They found the water too deep after wading ten yards, but could not get back because the boatmen had sailed away.

3 Seamen Lost In Ship Collision

LONDON (UPI).—An American tanker and a Lebanese steamer collided in dense fog in the western Mediterranean early yesterday. All but three crewmen of the small freighter were saved by a nearby U.S. troop transport.

Only the bow of the 22,000-ton freighter Beirut, remained afloat after the early morning mishap with the new tanker, East Switzerland, 120 miles east of Gibraltar.

The military transport Leviathan, which had been damaged after a dash to the rescue, three were missing.

Laxity in Use of Farm Sprays Causes Mounting Poisoning Toll

By SHALOM COHEN, Jerusalem Post Reporter
A total of 4,000 licences to use the deadly farm spray Parathion have been issued to date by the Ministry of Agriculture. A Ministry official, commenting on this to The Jerusalem Post, described the number as "astronomical."

Parathion has been the main cause of the rising death toll due to accidental poisoning.

The Ministry of Health has for some time been pressing the Ministries of Agriculture and Labour to enforce strict precautions in the handling and use of Parathion and other poisons. It was only on August 1, the Health Ministry's Director-General invited his counterparts in the other two Ministries to meet and discuss the question, but such a meeting has not yet materialized.

The Ministry of Health maintains that Parathion is used in many other sprays in use, is also dangerous when absorbed through the skin, where milder insecticides are adequate. Instead of the Ministry of Agriculture "advising" farmers which sprays to use, it should issue them.

A senior Ministry of Agriculture official on Monday declared at a press conference that the use of Parathion is being reduced almost to nil, and that legislation is under consideration to control its handling. The indiscriminate use of Parathion was said to have been damaging to crops.

Course Ineffectual
A person wishing to use Parathion must take a course in the procedure. The course, the official declared, lasts for an hour or two, and are completely ineffectual.

According to the Ministry of Labour regulations, persons handling Parathion are supposed to receive blood tests at Kupat Holim, at specific intervals, but this is hardly ever done.

Parathion is much cheaper than other sprays, and one way of cutting down its use would be to raise the price, the official said.

Apart from enlisting the help of agricultural instructors, there would be a good idea to engage about 10,000 inspectors. The cost could be borne by the three Ministries concerned.

The instructors and inspectors could see it that at least the existing regulations are adhered to, such as those regarding the storing of poisons on uncultivated fields, the type of apparel sprayers should wear, and the period which should elapse between spraying and marketing crops. None of these regulations is now properly enforced.

SECURITY.—India's Defense Minister, Krishna Menon, told a press conference Tuesday night that India's forces are deployed on her northern borders that no further violation of Indian territory can occur. He said India had sought to support China's position in the world, but China had violated India's frontier.

17TH OLYMPIC GAMES OPEN TODAY

Israel Pins Hopes on Gymnastics and Fencing

By PAUL KOHN

HIGHLIGHTING the first half of the 17th Olympic Games (today until September 11) in Rome, will be the swimming, cycling, boating and wrestling events. The track and field, basketball, gymnastics and fencing will reach their climax only in September.

Australia and America will be the leading lights in the swimming pools in Rome. Australia did magnificently in home waters in 1956, emerging with eight of its 15 titles won, and they are aiming at even more gold medals in Rome. Germany, the Netherlands, Japan and Britain appear as the next strongest nations in swimming.

Women Swimmers

It will be in some of the women's swins that the competition will be most hectic, with the 400 metres freestyle looming as the greatest race. This clash will see the 16-year-old water babies Ilsa Konradi and swimming champion Dawn Fraser, who has hopes of winning four titles in Rome and who is undoubtedly the world record holder over 400 metres and is an excellent, efficient swimmer. Miss Fraser is described as a "torpedo" in the way she slices through the water, and von Saltza is a fast moving stylist. Not to be forgotten in this race is Netherland's European champion Corrie Schimmel, Germany's Gisela Weismann, Sweden's Bibbi Hegerstrom.

Dawn Fraser will probably dominate in the 100 metres freestyle for the first time in the Olympic Games. She will also contest the 100 metres butterfly, here she may find the American team of Nancy Ramey and Becky Collins too good for her. Two swimmers are likely to go to Australia and the 200-m. breaststroke and 200-pm. backstroke. Rita Van Velsen (Holland) may have the toughest opposition from Britain's brawny Natalie Steward, world record holder over 100 yards. East and West German swimmers, the one and even to have beaten Konradi, may be the nearest to him at the finish.

Germany and Japan have the best breaststroke swimmers, with Egon Henninger favourite for the 200 metres; Mike Troy (U.S.A.), Britain's Ian Black and America's Lance Larson both the top three in the butterfly.

Europe will put a stiff challenge to America's divers, who have dominated the high board and springboard scene for 40 years. Leading the challenge will be the 17-year-old German, Ingrid Kramer, and Britain's Brian Phelps.

Popular Soccer

For spectator appeal, soccer will probably be tops in these Olympics. No footballer who played in the 1956 World Cup was allowed to compete in the qualifying rounds, but otherwise nearly all countries will show their strongest sides.

The notable event of the qualifying rounds was the surprising victory of Russia, Olympic champions in Melbourne, where they beat Yugoslavia 1-0 in the final. It might be added that Yugoslavia, too, will be in the final in the final pool, after losing 1-2 and drawing 2-2 with Israel last year. Yugoslavia is now strongly tipped abroad to become Olympic champions.

In the group with Yugoslavia are also Bulgaria (whose Olympic team beat Haifa Maccabi 6-0 in Sofia, last week), Turkey and Egypt.

Group Two sees Brazil, Britain, Italy and Formosa. Poland, Argentina, Peru, Denmark, Hungary and Group Four, Hungary, Peru, France and India.

No side in Italy will have such inside-forwards as Florio Albert and Janos Gerecze of Hungary, and I take the Hungarians to repeat their Helsinki performance of 1952. In their group, Peru will be the best, followed by Turkey, Yugoslavia has reached the finals in last three Olympic Games and lost every time.

Forecasting the winners of Olympic boxing is a task suited to soothsayers, particularly those in America. There will be four main "blobs" fighting for medals—the Americans, the Western Europeans, the Russians and East Europeans and the Far Easterners—each with a style of their own.

Britain's classic straight left boxing style won it gold medals in Melbourne, besides the Val D'Isere tournament, the first stylist of the Olympics. But Britain has produced nothing spectacular in boxing since then, and nor have any of the West European lands, with the exception of Finland's Olli Macki. The East Europeans do not.

care so much for the pretty side of boxing. They teach their men to slug away, pack a powerful punch and take the ring in peak condition. Russia's heavyweight Andrei Abramov and group of unknown young men will be among the leading contenders. But it is Poland which may be the top East European country, today claiming three European champions. The Germans and Italians are reported to pose considerable threats.

The Japanese and Korean boxers are particularly strong in the bantam, fly and featherweight divisions. Edward Maron has lifted 267.5 kilograms (in three lifts) in the bantamweight division compared to the Japanese student Miyake's 245 kilos and the Russian Ulyanov's 230 kilos.

A great battle is promised between the Yugoslavs and the American colours in the featherweight division though born in Jerusalem, and the Russian Minnev. Both have lifted 267.5 kilos. Israel's representative in this division, Gazi Cohen, has lifted 265 kilos.

Israel will not play in the final basketball pool in Rome. The tournament promises to be extremely interesting. Brazil is world champion and Russia too is very strongly represented, but it would be surprising if any of them could take the Olympic gold medal away from the U.S. in this sport.

In free-style wrestling, Russia will face much stronger challenges from its southern neighbours, Turkey and Iran.

Israel's Participation

The host country, Italy, seems most unlikely to add much to its already solid tally in cycling. For sheer speed cycling in Rome's Velodrome Olympico, the Italians Gaiardoni and Gasparella will probably be too good for Belgium's Leo Sterckx. For team cycling, though, East Germany and Australia will be the main "blobs" fighting for medals—the Americans, the Western Europeans, the Russians and East Europeans and the Far Easterners—each with a style of their own.

Israel's participation in the Rome Olympics will also be broken. There will be four main "blobs" fighting for medals—the Americans, the Western Europeans, the Russians and East Europeans and the Far Easterners—each with a style of their own.

Britain's classic straight left boxing style won it gold medals in Melbourne, besides the Val D'Isere tournament, the first stylist of the Olympics. But Britain has produced nothing spectacular in boxing since then, and nor have any of the West European lands, with the exception of Finland's Olli Macki. The East Europeans do not.

(This is the first of two articles.)

No side in Italy will have such inside-forwards as Florio Albert and Janos Gerecze of Hungary, and I take the Hungarians to repeat their Helsinki performance of 1952. In their group, Peru will be the best, followed by Turkey, Yugoslavia has reached the finals in last three Olympic Games and lost every time.

Forecasting the winners of Olympic boxing is a task suited to soothsayers, particularly those in America. There will be four main "blobs" fighting for medals—the Americans, the Western Europeans, the Russians and East Europeans and the Far Easterners—each with a style of their own.
